Bio

Savita Subramanian is the senior U.S. quantitative strategist within the Investment Strategy Group. Along with her role as an analyst, she is responsible for marketing the firm's equity investment strategies to both institutional and individual clients. She has been in Quantitative Strategy since 2001.

The strategy department at Merrill Lynch has been voted to the Institutional Investor All-American Research team for the past fourteen years in the Quantitative Strategy and Portfolio Strategy categories, and was a member of the "First Team" for the past ten years.

Prior to Merrill Lynch, Savita was an analyst at Scudder Kemper Investments in New York and San Francisco.

Savita is frequently quoted in the press and appears regularly on business news segments. She is a member of the Chicago Quantitative Alliance, the Q-Group, the Society of Quantitative Analysts and Women on Wall Street.

Savita received a Bachelor of Arts degree with a double major in Mathematics and Philosophy from University of California at Berkeley, and an MBA degree from Columbia University, with a concentration in Finance, where she was a teaching assistant for graduate level finance courses. She remains actively involved in the Columbia Business School alumni organization.
